over the entire responsibility of fire extinction in Hongkong and the villages, and this the most serious part of the transfer demanding an advance of 10 per cent. in suggests the question, Is the Government which will enable it to cope unaided with a large fire? Something was said lately by Cassan His Excellency concerning the re-arrangement of the pay attached to membership of the Brigade, but it would be more reassurmouthshire, Neckar, Telemachus, Da- ing to know that special arrangements have been made by the authorities to meet the increased demand on the Government Brigade consequent on the disbandment of the Volunteers. It will not be surprising to many to learn that the local Offices have given up the expensive luxury of a Fire Brigade. They have practically been doing for years back the work of Home and Continental offices, and receiving return nothing save the back-handed attentions of Home Companies generally known as the 'war of rates.' Such one-sided arrangement was bound come to an end, but the end has come very quietly and without ostentation.
